TO TRY IT LATER

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 4.—(AP)—"If at first you don't succeed, try it later." Revised by E. F. Gillis.

Gillis, driving home yesterday attempted to light a cigar. Pulling out his mechanical lighter he snapped it—it clicked, but there was no spark no flame. Changing hands he tried again with the same result. Then he tried both hands; holding one over the lighter to protect the flame if any he gave a vicious push with the other hand.

He regained consciousness in a hospital where they told him he had run into a tree that he still held the lighter when they pulled him out and that he would recover.

Night Attendant Forced To Open Register: Loot Was $56

The Newman Brothers Riverside garage was the scene of another holdup this morning about 12:45 when two unmasked young men held up Clarence Schultz, night attendant and robbed the cash register of more than $56. A large black sedan drove up to the garage at the early morning hour, the two occupants entering the station and ordering pop.

As the attendant turned to serve the pair, one of the men whipped out a revolver and ordered Schultz to throw up his hands. The second led him to a corner of the office, while his accomplice rifled the cash register and emptied it of its contents. Schultz was forced to open the register before being led away.

The pair then backed out of the office, climbed into their car and drove west on River street. Schultz told the police that the car bore Iowa license plates, 23-1094. Chief Van Bibber conducted a checkup this morning with the Clinton, Iowa police and learned that the license was issued to Otto Duke, a farmer residing near Grand Mound, Iowa. At Grand Mound it was learned that the licenses were still in use on Duke's car.

MARY AT BEACH

Lowell Park Beach attracted thousands of visitors yesterday who sought relief from the intense heat. The attendance at the beach this season is expected to establish a new record. The water is in the best condition for bathing that it has been in years. This is due to the fact that there have been no rains to disturb the water making it muddy and murky and it is very clear. Members of the park board have pronounced the bathing accommodations at Lowell park to be the best in years and the daily attendance at the beach is evidence of this fact.

BARN, SHEDS, STOCK LOST IN THREE BLAZES

Lightning Caused Bad Fire in Harmon Twp. This Morning

A large barn and a machine shed on the Theodore Fitzpatrick farm, three miles south east of Harmon in Harmon township, were leveled to the ground this morning by fire which threatened to wipe out all of the buildings on the farm. The big barn was struck by lightning about 9:30 and in a few minutes was a mass of flame. The machine shed directly north was set fire and a large straw stack was also consumed.

All of the livestock was out of the barn when the lightning struck, but several tons of hay and feed and considerable farm machinery was destroyed. The house caught fire several times, but a heavy shower which fell immediately damped the house and corn crib saving them from destruction. The barn was a large building and was but a few years old. The loss was said to have been partially covered with insurance.

Three Buildings Burn

Three buildings on the Boreland estate farm, managed by August Kithorn and tenanted by Earl Poy, five miles north of Walnut in Hamilton township on the Indian Head Trail, were totally destroyed together with their contents Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

The Poy family were at home and shortly after 2:30 one of the members of the family discovered the fire burning fiercely in the main barn. Fanned by a strong wind, the burning embers set fire to two other structures which were also leveled to the ground.

Six horses and mules were cremated in the main barn. All of the farm machinery was consumed together with a few tons of hay and feed. The fire is believed to have started from spontaneous combustion and burned rapidly. Neighbors were summoned and formed a bucket brigade, saving the house and some smaller building which were fired several times.

FIRE EAST OF COMPTON

(Telephone Special Service)

West Brooklyn, Aug. 4.—The large barn on the Charles Holden farm, one and one-half miles east of Compton on the old Chicago road, was totally destroyed by fire Saturday evening. About 6 o'clock the flames were discovered in the top of the structure. It is believed that the fire started from spontaneous combustion in the new hay and had gained considerable headway when discovered. A hurried telephone call to neighbors brought many to the farm and all of the live stock and equipment was removed from the structure. Considerable hay and some grain was burned. Bucket brigades were formed and prevented the fire from spreading to the residence and other buildings. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

PILOT-LESS MOTORBOAT GIVES BATHERS AT LOWELL PARK REAL SCARE LATE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Sterling Outboard Motor Enthusiast Thrown From Racing Craft

A racing outboard motor boat without a pilot and travelling at a 40-mile an hour speed, sent bathers at the Lowell Park Beach scurrying to points of safety Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock, and other water craft put on all speed to prevent being rammed and sent to the bottom as the speed boat made a half circle about the beach before coming to a stop. Life Guard "Dutch" Regan, who saw the unusual accident, and observed the course the boat was taking after its driver had been thrown into the water, was successful in clearing the water of bathers before the wild craft swept past the beach toward shore.

W. H. Jacobs of Sterling, treasurer of the Dixon-Sterling Outboard Motor club, owner of the boat, was enjoying the afternoon taking friends for rides over the race course in front of the park. He was alone about 4 o'clock when the accident occurred. In driving close to the shore, the boat is believed to have skidded or to have struck a minor obstruction, leaping in the air and throwing the pilot into the water. The boat struck one of the small temporary piers used by racing craft west of the beach some distance, demolished the pier and when it leaped in the air, Mr. Jacobs was thrown into the water on the shore side. He was uninjured, being thrown into shallow water and soon crawled out on the shore.

The boat took a semi-circular course after the driver had been thrown. In some manner, a part of his body struck the throttle on the motor throwing it wide open as he was thrown. The light craft gained speed as it sped toward the bathing beach at a 40-miles-an-hour clip. Bathers rushed out of the water to the shore and stood in groups watching the small boat.

Circling about the bathing beach, the boat missed another craft by inches as its driver put on all speed to prevent being rammed. The Jacobs boat then started toward shore. Striking the sandy beach at the rate of speed which it was travelling, the light craft leaped from the water fully 20 feet on the bank and came to a stop with a large hole torn in the hull. The boat was badly damaged as was the outboard motor. No one was injured, those near the beach were furnished with the most thrilling spectacle which has yet been seen at the park.

Fort Dearborn Was Founded 100 Yrs. Ago

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(AP)—America's second largest city is 100 years old today.

On Aug. 4, 1830, the river-mouth, marshland settlement known as Fort Dearborn, became Chicago through the publication of James Thompson's village plat.

State Street was the east boundary of the three-eighths of a mile square village. Madison Street marked the south edge, DesPlaines the west and Kinzie the north.

Thompson came to Kaskaskia, Ill., on the Mississippi, in 1814. He was a school teacher, captain of militia, a surveyor and a judge. He was selected by the trustees of the Illinois and Michigan Canal Commission to lay out the proposed canal and plat a city at either end. Ottawa, Ill., was the town at the other end.

The village was not incorporated until three years later, the centenary of which will be celebrated with the 1933 world's fair here.

St. Louis Plane Is Equipped With Radio

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 4.—(UP)—The endurance monoplane, "Greater St. Louis," was equipped today with a radio transmitter and hereafter Pilots Forest O'Brien and Dale Jackson will broadcast their requests to the ground crew.

Receiving sets on the ground successfully picked up O'Brien's voice yesterday when he talked into the tiny transmitter aboard the plane.

Pilots Black and Reichers who were forced down over Roosevelt Field in their attempt to set a new endurance record, wired Jackson and O'Brien best wishes for a successful flight.

At 7:11 a. m. (CST) the former holders of the endurance record had been in the air 336 hours.

The total length of Broadway within the limits of Greater New York is fifteen and one-half miles.

Unhappy Plight Of Coffin-Lyer Finally Settled

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Consider the plight of Captain Jack Evans, who lays claim to the coffin-lying championship.

Although the Captain has broken his own record for lying in a coffin in an amusement park here, his backers refuse to allow him to be dug up until financial details are settled.

This is no laughing matter. Captain Jack has been underground without real food for seven days and a couple of hours. Signals from the champion to those six feet above him are that he wants to come up.

But here is where the matter of a contract comes in. One of the park owners insists on 35 per cent of the receipts and unless he gets his money, he says, he'll refuse to allow the grave diggers to turn a spade.

Charles Hudspeth, assistant to Captain Evans, was almost driven to tears and punches. Communicating with Evans through the ventilator shaft, Hudspeth yelled:

"Hey, we won't get enough out of this for new suits. I'm going to ask visitors to donate 50 cents to see you dug up and the park mob get nothing, see."

"Get me out of here without so much argument," answered Evans, "make it a quarter, times are hard and most of them up there haven't got a half dollar."

All was settled then and the crowd began to pay quarters to see Captain Evans disinterred. When the park officials arrived on the scene, there was an uproar. They roared in chorus:

"We want our 35 per cent."

"Nix," said Hudspeth.

Fists began to fly. Somebody called Policeman Red Moore Moore is a diplomat, he suggested they dig Evans up and argue afterward. The combatants agreed to let Moore hold the money and Evans was brought to earth or from the earth.

When the Captain was uncovered, he was a sorry sight. His cheeks were sunken. With shaking fingers he grabbed a glass of water, thanked the crowd and then collapsed.

The park owners and Hudspeth adjourned for further argument over division of the receipts.

Lanark Woman Met Death Saturday Eve

Mrs. Emma Hanna of Lanark, well known in this city, was killed at a railroad crossing in Lanark when she was struck by a moving freight engine on the Milwaukee tracks. Mrs. Hanna was on her way to her home and walked directly in front of the locomotive which struck her, throwing her less than ten feet. The body was terrible crushed and death was instantaneous. Three persons seated in an automobile witnessed the tragedy. Mrs. Hanna is survived by one son, Forest. Funeral services will be conducted from her home in Lanark Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

MOTORISTS AND GARAGE OWNERS LINE UP FOR BATTLE: CHARGES OF 'RACKETEERING: CHEAPSKATE'

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(A.P.)—West side motorists and garage owners are lining up for battle with one side shouting "racketeer" and the other side jeering "cheapskate."

The immediate cause for action was the puncturing yesterday of the tires of 70 cars parked in the vicinity of Kedzie and Maypole avenues. Motorists found anywhere from two to five flat tires per car, evidently caused by quick jabs with an ice pick. Some of them got together and took their case to the

DROUGHT AND HEAT KILLING ALL CORN CROP

Cooler Weather Will Be Only Temporary Weatherman Says

BULLETIN

Washington, Aug. 4.—(UP)—A major catastrophe is threatening the drought-stricken farm areas east of the Mississippi river unless there is rain within ten days, Louis J. Taber, Master of the National Grange, told President Hoover at the White House today.

Taber urged the government to consider measures to aid in the situation.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Parched prairies and sweltering cities of the midlands gained a small degree of comfort today from forecasters of cooler weather in the offing.

Prairies and cities went on broiling today, but the temperatures were in the relatively cool eighties, spilling over occasionally into the nineties.

Farmers Forced To Slaughter Livestock

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Drought conditions in eastern Missouri and southern Illinois, the worst in years, have forced many farmers to slaughter their livestock.

In some sections water for stock has had to be hauled miles by automobile.

and sometimes shrinking even to the seventies as a thunder shower, brief and tantalizing, slaked the thirst of the neighborhood momentarily.

Lincoln, Neb., and St. Paul started the morning round of fanning with thermometers at 85—cooler than yesterday, and with promises of still cooler tomorrow. At Duluth it was 82 at 9:30 A. M., and the mercury upbound. Chicago, after a still night during which the mercury at 85 rested more steadily than the populace, went to work in a shower and a beneficent northwest breeze that reduced the temperature to 74 by 10 o'clock. But, between showers, the Weather Bureau said the familiar nineties might be back by night.

No Permanent Relief

Government forecasters saw no permanent relief in sight. There is some chance of local thunderstorms, and very slight rainfall, they said, but the heat wave is not expected to be broken for at least another week.

To the farmer whose principal crop is corn this means serious hardship. Another week as hot and dry as the last two would seriously damage even late planted corn. The earlier part of the crop has been hurt to such an extent that private estimates suggest a loss of around 400,000,000 bushels already.

Pasturage has also been burned badly and may affect dairy products. Rivers and lakes are so low, the U. S. Bureau of fisheries announced, that the nation's fish population is in distress.

Records Fall Everywhere

Yesterday was one of the hottest days ever recorded in the United States with records falling in the east, the midwest and the southwest. In Boston, 98 set a new high mark for the season and equalled the 100 in Washington, 96 in Baltimore, 94 in Philadelphia and 92 in New York.

In the plains states all the records were set at Emporia, Kan., where it was 113 yesterday and at Omaha where it was 111.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 4.—(AP)—A Sunday outing of three related families at a fishing camp on the Ohio river near here ended in tragedy yesterday when a boat carrying nine small children and three adults capsized. Five children and the father of one of them were drowned.

Leo Guenther, 21, another son of drowned man and a pilot of the boat, pulled three other children to the overturned craft and held them on top of it until aid arrived. Lawrence Shacklette swam ashore with a fourth child.

The four children saved were Cltus Guenther, 9, and William Guenther, 6, other sons of the drowned man; Alvin Guenther, 4, another nephew, and Anna Mae Heichelbech, 14, sister of the drowned girl. Leo Guenther and the three children clinging to the overturned craft were rescued by Charles Hager and Virgil Marshall, fishermen.

All occupants of the Argo car will recover. They were enroute to Eagle River, Wis.

Orderliness is one of the cardinal virtues of C. M. C. T. life, and the promptness in which new students grasp the significance of the training is demonstrated by two groups occupying quarters in Company F of the 341st Infantry at Fort Sheridan, Ill. Following the inspection of all tents in Camp Donald W. White, the first morning of training, two tents in Company F won first and second honors for the best tents in the second battalion. Each tent is occupied by six students and to merit the award every cot must be neatly arranged, clothing must be properly hung, and all other equipment in prescribed order. The student sergeant in charge of each tent has five new men under his supervision, and in this instance the honors are perhaps due to the proficiency of student Sergeant Armand Sommerfield, 118 Wool st., Barrington, Ill., who won the first award and to Sergeant William Westfall of 12 Mount Vernon st., Grand Rapids, Mich., whose past camp experience enabled him to bring his men into second award.

Quartermaster Sommerfield were basic students William Driscoll, 3422 Juneau ave., Milwaukee, Wis.; Louis Pitcher, 117 E. Boyd st., Dixon, Ill.; Edgar Kehoe, 1151 Eighth st., LaSalle, Ill.; and Lawrence DePersia, 7023 Westworth ave., and Wallace Wollesen, 1840 E. 72nd ave., both of Chicago.

No sooner was the award made by Company Commander Capt. Scott A. Burnham, than evidence of keen rivalry began to develop, with indications that before the expiration of a week company inspectors are going to find themselves in a quandary as to who has the best quarters.

CHINESE REDS
MARCH BEHIND
HUMAN SCREEN

Using Fettered Peasants To Shield Advance: Crisis Serious

Hankow, Aug. 4.—(AP)—How communists advanced into Changshan behind a human screen to shield themselves from the fire of troops defending the city was related here today by a wounded Colonel of Human provincial forces.

The officer, arriving here for hospitalization, said the Reds entered the city behind masses of fettered peasants. The peasants' hands were tied behind their backs.

Before realizing the helplessness of the peasants provincial troops opened fire, the Colonel said, but held their bullets when they saw they were slaughtering defenseless persons on large numbers.

Advancing then without opposition, the Reds easily dispensed the provincial troops, inflicting heavy losses, and began their carnival of murder, robbery and arson.

Meanwhile the evacuation of Kuling, Kiangsi Province summer resort, was speeded up as the Communists menace persisted there.

United States naval authorities also announced Yangtze river patrol would be improved to cope with the situation in the communist ridden valley.

Changsha was shelled by a Chinese gunboat last night, dispatches said. Communist machine gun crews on the north outskirts of the city returned the fire until the gunboat was forced to turn back.

Changsha, although most of the Reds were believed withdrawn, still not be announced until next Monday.

Information gathered by the Crop Reporting Service is guarded with extreme care because of the effect premature reports would have upon the market. Unofficial estimates from the farm belt place the damage already this summer well up towards a half-billion dollars.

J. B. Kincer, Chief of the Division of Agricultural Meteorology, said today that August probably would be another intensely hot month.

"There is a tendency for a warm August to follow a warm July," he said. "In Iowa during the last 57 years there have been 30 warm Julys, with average temperatures above normal. In these 30 years the following Augusts have had temperatures above normal 20 times, or two out of every three years."

Kincer said the Bureau could make no formal predictions to this effect but added that "an amateur prophet may predict a warm August with a fair chance of having his prophecy fulfilled."

Catholic Bishop Of Milwaukee Is Dead

St. Gall, Switzerland, Aug. 4.—(AP)—Monsignor Sebastian Messmer, Catholic Archbishop of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, died at Goldach, last night, at the age of 83.

Tests of more than 700 school children at Columbia University have shown that a sutterer is the intellectual equal of a normal child, that his vocabulary is as good and usually that he is physically superior.

To Study Foot Comfort at Orthopedic School

O. S. G. Wolf Leaves to Take Course at Orthopedic Institution.

Mr. Wolf of the Bowman Bros. Shoe leaves Aug. 4th for Chicago where he is to take special work at The Scholl Orthopedic Training School. The correct fitting of shoes, and the use of up-to-date mechanical appliances for correcting abnormal feet have been receiving a great deal of attention in recent years and Dr. William M. Scholl, the founder of the school, is an internationally recognized leader in the important field of foot comfort.

"It's not so many years ago," said Mr. Wolf "that both shoes were made alike, there being no rights and lefts, but since that time, the design of shoes and the improvements in shoe fitting has been very rapid. The development has been especially rapid of late and it is now possible to obtain combination lasts, and lasts which follow the flare of the foot perfectly. On my return from the course of study in Chicago, I feel that I will be better able than ever to handle the difficult cases which come up in the course of an ordinary day's business."—Adv.

Kansas City's government thermometer reached 107.2 and the mean temperature for the day was 97, the highest on record. Other high temperatures included: Sac City, Ia., 113; Fremont, Neb., 112; Mangum, Okla., 111; Beatrice, Neb., 111; Topeka, Kan., Saline, Kan., Wichita, Kan., and Algona, Ia., 110.

Prairie fires broke out near Sheridan, Ind., and destroyed a twenty-acre woods before being checked.

The main crop damage has been reported in Nebraska, Kan., and Missouri where hot blasts and lack of rain have withered corn.

A thunderstorm gave Chicago temporary relief yesterday and today, but excessive humidity added to discomfort from the heat.

DISCOURAGING OUTLOOK.

Washington, Aug. 4.—(UP)—A discouraging prospect of continued lack of rain faces farmers of the nation, already threatened with disaster from widespread drought and the longest period of intensified heat the U. S. Weather Bureau ever has recorded.

While the Weather Bureau announced today that the drought shows no signs of breaking, the department of Agriculture proceeded with its compilation of the actual damage to crops caused by the prolonged dry spell. Its report on the cotton estimate will be released Friday, while estimates on grain, vegetables, fruits, sugar and nuts, will not be announced until next Monday.

Information gathered by the Crop Reporting Service is guarded with extreme care because of the effect premature reports would have upon the market. Unofficial estimates from the farm belt place the damage already this summer well up towards a half-billion dollars.

THE LITTLE HOUSE UPON THE HILL

THE little house upon the hill stands high for all to know. The winds of God blow sweet and shrill about the casement window sill where swallows come and go.

The downs by all the breezes fanned roll outward from the door. In faint lines, infant hedges stand marking the surge of alien land like foamdrift on a shore.

And mighty galleons in the sky sail by, serene and free. They guard this little peace-filled prize, a treasure-house of memories drawn from the world's wide sea.—Constance Smedley.

Will Not Campaign For Mrs. McCormick

Washington, Aug. 4.—(U.P.)—Reports that Mrs. Alice Longworth is to campaign publicly for her life-long friend, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, in the Illinois Senatorial race are "interesting, but not true," Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson, the Washington Herald's new editor, said today in her first signed article.

Mrs. Patterson is a member of the same prominent newspaper family as Mrs. McCormick's late husband, former Senator Medill McCormick. She has long been a leader in Washington society and is an author of note, writing as the Countess Gizzycka. Mrs. Patterson became Editor-in-chief of the Herald recently.

"Mrs. McCormick takes no advice political or otherwise," the new editor wrote.

"Mrs. Longworth gives no interviews to the press. Mrs. Longworth cannot utter in public. Her assistance will, therefore, resolve itself, as usual, into posing for photographs."

Weds Young American Instead of Foreigner

New York, Aug. 4.—(AP)—The New York American today says Miss Marie Mairs, wealthy New York debutante, has jilted the son of a Dutch diplomat to elope with a broker's clerk.

The engagement of Miss Mairs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olney B. Mairs of Fifth Avenue and Briarcliff, N. Y., was announced last September to Daniel Francois-Marie Hubrecht, son of Dr. Jan Hubrecht, Counsellor of the Netherlands legation at London, and later Ambassador to Brazil. On June 20 last, says the American, Miss Mairs eloped with Martin Henry who came here from South Bend, Ind.

Young Hubrecht, after a visit here last fall, returned to England. Miss Mairs said that after the wedding she sent him a cable informing him of the event.

University Aided Many of the Students

Urbana, Ill., Aug. 4.—(UP)—A total of $40,220 was loaned to 232 students enrolled in the University of Illinois the last academic year by the Student Loan Fund of the institution, according to figures announced today by Bursar, H. B. Ingalls.

Seniors were by far the greatest borrowers of the fund, which shows the meeting of school expenses becomes more difficult as the student advances. A total of $193,782.04 is included in the fund available for loans.

Have You Heard?

You can play bridge on the sands, out under the trees or on the porch with no fear of having your trumps blown away if you invest in one of the out-of-doors boards that are on the market this season.

They are made of lightweight metal or composition and have little clips, like fingers, that keep a tight hold on the tricks you have taken and the cards in the dummy.

The dummy side of the board has short clips one for each card. The other three sides have longer clips to hold the tricks. They are a great addition to the outdoor summer equipment of a household.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 4.—(AP)—H. L. Mencken, prospective benedict, had but one comment today on the announcement of his engagement: to Miss Sara Powell Haardt, writer. The man who wrote that "Being married with all your friends about you is as private and discriminating as eating in the window of a restaurant," said his wedding will be very quiet. "It will be very refined," he said with a laugh.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
1930 BY NEA SERVICE

Mothers often are puzzled about vitamins. It is an elusive term at best and probably none but the initiate know how they work, why they work, or exactly what they are.

Calories, we know, are food units that build up tissue, but vitamins are different. They seem as the name derivatives suggest, to give "life" to certain parts of the body, thereby preventing disease from attacking those parts by keeping them resistant.

I have looked up a table of vitamins for the help of those mothers who are concerned about fortifying their children against present malformations and weaknesses.

Advantages Are Many

But first I shall say this, that this list does not mention the lesser things prevented by vitamins. There are many other advantages gained by the vitamin diet than these mentioned here:

Vitamin "A" is contained in cod liver oil, butter, and eggs. Prevents eye diseases primarily.

"B" is contained in vegetables and cereals. Prevents beri-beri, a disease characterized by paralysis, numbness and difficulty in breathing. It is commoner in the Orient where natives depend on rice and starches for their food. Also prevents other nerve diseases and resultant functional disorders.

"C" is contained in citrus fruits such as oranges, grape fruit, lemons and limes. It prevents scurvy and certain skin diseases.

"D" is found in cold liver oil and fish. It fortifies against rickets or improper bone development.

"E" in wheat kernels prevents sterility.

"F" found in liver and lettuce prevents stunted growth.

"G" found in beef, milk and yeast prevents pellagra, a nervous disease with inclination to extreme melancholy.

Milk Builds Tissues

There may be others but these are the important ones. I was surprised to find milk mentioned only in one, but milk is essentially a tissue-building food and is preeminent, no doubt on account of its nourishing qualities.

As I say, vitamins lay little or no claim to the right of the caloric kingdom. They have a different work to do.

We see now how necessary it is to give the children a "balanced" diet—one that contains all these preventions in general. Not too much starch, not too much fat, nor a surfeit of cereals or fruits or eggs or meat at the expense of the others. Vegetables are fine because they contain a generous quantity of calories as well as vitamins. Yet even they need the balance of butter fats, fruits, milk and meats to round out their efficiency.

Marion, Ill., Aug. 4.—(UP)—Authorities sought origin today of a fire here last night which resulted in the death of an unidentified man and $60,000 damages to a garage and hotel in the business section.

The man died in a Herrin, Ill., hospital after being knocked to the ground from a two story building across the street from the fire when struck by water firemen were playing on the blaze.

DEPORTATION OF ALIEN COMMUNISTS.

Inquiry into communistic activities in the United States is being carried on by a committee of the house of representatives, of which Representative Fish of New York is chairman. It was authorized following charges made by former Commissioner Whalen of New York relative to communists and their operations in this country.

What attitude the government will take depends upon findings of the house committee. Linked close with government policy is the power of deportation which is limited to aliens. Chairman Fish favors deportation when it is possible.

Immigration laws of the United States provide that among aliens to be deported are those who believe in or advocate the overthrow by force or violence of the government of the United States. Also, any who write or circulate material advocating such overthrow, or who are affiliated with any organization or group which circulates that material. Former aliens who have become American citizens are naturally not subject to deportation, although their citizenship may be revoked if it has been fraudulently obtained.

If a deported alien has a passport of the country of which he is a national, he is deported to that country. If without a passport, he is deported to the country from which he is believed to have come. The difficulty here is that the country to which an alien is deported may refuse to receive him. This situation applies particularly to anarchists, since no country, not excluding Russia, desires them. If the deportee can not be landed at the country to which he has been sent (at the expense of the United States), there is nothing to do but bring him back, again at the expense of the United States. At the present time, there are a number of deportees still in the United States because no country will receive them.

The present annual immigration quota from European and Asiatic Russia is under three thousand. Most of those admitted under this quota are the wives and children of Russians who have become naturalized American citizens. Temporary visas are given by American consuls abroad to Russians who desire to come to the United States to transact business, to visit or to study, as permitted by law. In issuing such visas, the consuls are supposed to assure themselves that the applicant is a bona-fide business man, tourist or student, and not a communist emissary or propagandist. Since the United States does not recognize the soviet government of Russia, the visa is not stamped upon the Russian passport, but upon a duplicate application form.

There is no limit by law to the length of stay which may be granted to aliens on temporary visas. The immigration bureaus issues to such aliens a permit, usually for a six months' residence. This is renewable for any number of periods, but as a rule the immigration bureau refuses to let the stay be prolonged indefinitely.

The immigration law specifies that among those excluded from the definition of "immigrant" are aliens "entitled to enter the United States solely to carry on trade under and in pursuance of the provisions of a present existing treaty of commerce and navigation." Since no such treaty exists at the present time between the United States and soviet Russia, officials of the Amtorg, the official Russian trade organization in New York City, do not fall within this category. At the same time, nothing in the immigration law prevents visas from being issued to them for temporary visits, any more than it prevents permits to them for temporary residence from being either terminated or extended by the immigration officials.

In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, 12,908 aliens were deported from the United States. The causes were as follows: Public charges, 647; likely to become public charges 373; criminal and immoral, 1857 (Anarchists, etc., 1); without proper visas, 6874; remained longer than permitted, 2064; illegal entry, 652; miscellaneous, 441.

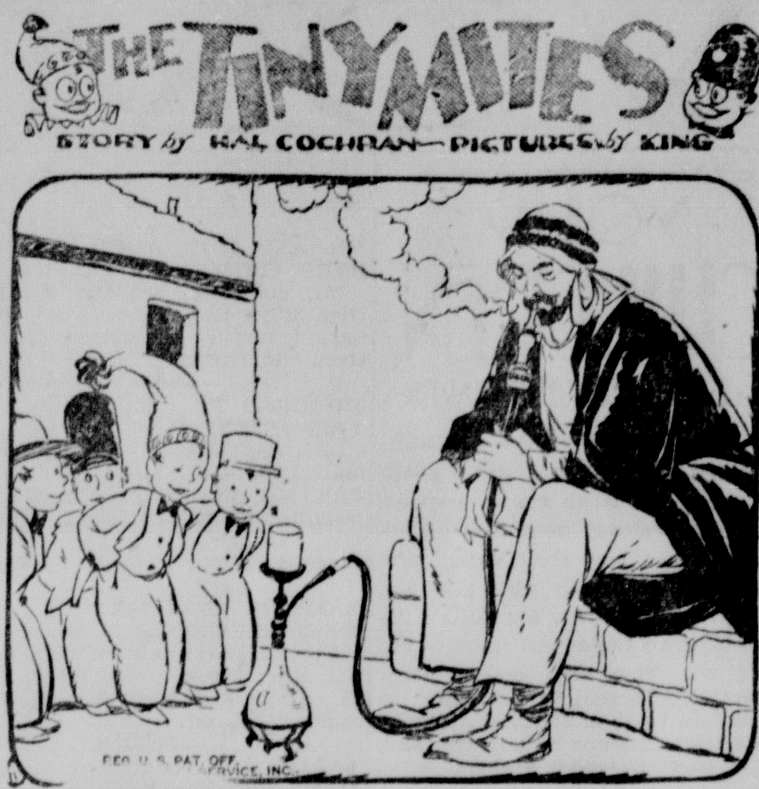

PARIS DICTATORS LOSE OUT.

The business organization of leading American makers of women's clothing has announced that hereafter they will not follow the dictates of Parisian style designers unless they have to believe that Paris styles will suit American women.

Last fall Paris arbitrarily decreed that skirts would be long. American women refused to accept the decree, and a lot of American dress manufacturers, who had thought that they would, lost money. So now the dress makers are going to ignore any further decrees about long skirts from Paris.

This is somehow gratifying, quite aside from the general question of the aesthetic, hygienic and practical advantages of the short skirt. The switch to long skirts came simply because the style designers wanted to make women buy clothes they didn't need. It failed, and its failure speaks volumes for the common sense of the American woman.

Irish women and girls spend more than $3,000,000 a year on cosmetics. To show, perhaps, that they can be just as beligerent as the men folk by using a heavy lipstick.

The vegetable girl just smiled and said, "Now watch the basket on my head. That's where I always carry it. It's easy you can see." She walked and even tried to slip. Then shouted, "It will never slip. You Tinymites could balance one upon your heads like me."

"All right. I'll try it," Scouty cried. "I'll give that basket quite a ride. Please help me put it on my head and I will do the rest." This was no sooner said than done. Then Scouty found it wasn't fun to hold a basket that way, though he tried his level best.

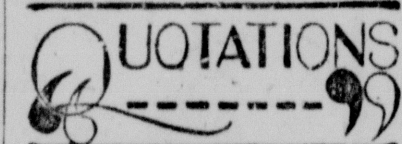

Soon Clowny shouted, "Better stop! I'm sure that basket's going to flop." And, sure enough, the basket did! It slipped from Scouty's head. It would have landed on the ground, but Carpy quickly reached around and caught it by the handle. "I'm a clever lad," he said. He gave it to the vegetable girl.

And with a clever little whirl, she swung it to her head again. It stayed there safe and sound. And then she said, "It's just a trick. If you can do it, you are slick. I've practiced long and now it never falls down to the ground."

And then she added, "Well good day. I think I'd best be on my way." The Tines said "goodbye" and they went walking down the street. The Travel Man then shouted, "Come! Just follow me and I'll find some new sight that you have not yet seen and it will be a treat."

Not far away they found the sight and it pleased every Tinymite. Some queer-dressed men sat by a wall, as peaceful as could be. The Travel Man explained that they would sometimes sit the live long day and smoke their odd-shaped water pipes, which all the bunch could see.

SHELLEY'S BIRTH

On August 4, 1792, Percy Bysshe Shelley, great English revolutionary and lyric poet, was born near Hoxham, England.

At the age of 13 he went to Eton and five years later to Oxford, where his father had been before him. After he had been at college for six months he was expelled for writing a tract, "The Necessity of Atheism," which he had published and circulated.

The following summer he married Harriet Westbrook, the 16-year-old daughter of a tavern keeper. After living a wandering life in different parts of England and Ireland for three years, they separated. She later committed suicide by drowning, whereupon Shelley remarried.

Soon after this he left England to spend the remainder of his life in Italy. On July 8 he sailed from Leghorn to Spezia, where he had settled for the summer. A squall overwhelmed the craft and Shelley drowned. The body, which was thrown upon the shore at Viareggio, was buried, and the ashes, except the heart, which was unconsumed, were buried in Rome.

His most famous works are "Queen Mab," "Alastor," and "Prometheus Unbound."

PALMYRA

Palmyra — Mrs. Cloyd Kendall of Sterling came out Thursday evening, staying over Friday to assist Mrs. I. J. Kendall in cooking for threshers. Waldron Gilbert finished his last job of threshing in his ring Friday at 3 o'clock, threshing the entire run without intermission.

Despite the general complaint of hard times and scarcity of money the number of cars and people in Sterling Showday seemed to contradict the fact.

Waldron Gilbert expects to start his clover huller in a few days.

We are glad to report Miss Martha Le Fever of Sterling as making rapid recovery from a very serious operation at the Sterling hospital.

Mrs. Ralph LeFever of Dixon assisted her mother with cooking for threshers on Friday.

"DESEST PROBLEM" HAS LEARNED MEN HARD AT THOUGHT

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Adventurer, Tells What He Would Do

Editor's Note: — Throughout the country today people puzzled over the most intriguing of the questions which Thomas A. Edison asked the 49 youths entered in his second annual scholarship contest.

Believing that an explorer and adventurer, who many times had faced or been in a position where he might be called upon to face the exact problem which Edison propounded, would be the best authority upon such a question, the United Press asked Dr. Frederick A. Cook, Arctic explorer, what his answer would be.

The question was: "You are at the head of an expedition which has come to grief in the desert. There is enough food and water left to enable three people to get to the nearest outpost of civilization. The rest must perish. Your companions are:

"A brilliant scientist, 60 years old; two half-breed guides, aged 58 and 32; the scientist's wife, interested mainly in society matters, aged 39; her little son, aged 6; the girl you are engaged to marry; your best friend; a young man of your own age who has shown great promise in the field of science; yourself.

"Which would you choose to live and which to die?"

Dr. Cook's answer to the question was as follows:

By Dr. FREDERICK A. COOK (Written for the United Press) Chicago, Aug. 4.—(UP)—The Edison "desert problem" is not one of sentiment—nor an appraisal of the worth of any one of the individuals, but of the duty of the leader. He must, if possible, save all without any partiality. To this end the leaders is bound to clearly figure out his best advantage by kindly or by forced operation. In this plan all depends upon the potential endurance and the reserve energy of the three who go to the nearest outpost to seek relief for all.

For this purpose, if I were leader I would select by best friend and the young guide, as a relief party. A traveling group under these conditions is only as strong as the weakest individual—three strong young men would best assure quick results. Their interest would force superhuman efforts to save the others.

The sweetheart coldly left behind would be the most valuable asset under these conditions. To insure the use of the power of love to save the others. The old scientist in charge of the starving four would be where he could be of greatest service to keep all alive and he would probably have the hardest job.

The food and water to be equally divided between the outgoing three and the four who await their fate—isolated in the desert. Evenly balanced young manhood under these conditions can be counted on to do a Herculean task, thus offering the least risk of sacrificing an one of the unfortunates.

For sentimental consideration one would be tempted to take in the outgoing group the young girl, the child or the honored scientist, but each of these would endanger the lives of all by reducing the speed and the freedom of the relief seeking travelers. It seems to me that an experienced leader, would quickly come to the above decision and let others argue the possible complications.

WOOD CARVINGS BY JANITOR IN MEXICAN EXHIBIT

Three Pieces by Aged Artist Included in Tour Pieces

Mexico City, (U.P.) Americans who view Mexican Art which soon is to begin a tour of the United States will have an opportunity to judge whether Diego Rivera, as head of the Academy of Fine Arts, was justified in appointing his janitor to a place on the faculty. Three wood carvings by the janitor-professor, Mardonio Magana, are to be included in the exhibit.

Other members of the Fine Arts faculty, incensed at the implication of equality with the man who formerly swept their floors, protested so strongly that both Rivera and Magana lost their jobs. The storm which broke over the heads of the director and the 62-year-old janitor rocked art circles of Mexico to their foundations and Rivera was publicly challenged to at least one duel—which he declined with thanks.

Janitor Magana's appointment to a professorship had been decided, Rivera told the late faculty members, on the basis of his talent with no regard for his social position. This talent, he said, had been developed by the janitor through many years of practice and observation of artists at the Academy. In the opinion of Director Rivera, the appointment was better justified than some that had been made by previous directors.

These arguments availed nothing.

When Revolution Swept Bolivia

This picture, taken at the height of the short but successful revolution in Bolivia, shows a barrier erected by armed students who engaged loyal troops in the streets of La Paz, the capital. Five hundred persons were killed in the fierce fighting which marked the overthrow of the regime of Dr. Hernandez Siles. The revolt was started when Dr. Siles resigned as President but, to evade the constitutional law that no Bolivian President may succeed himself, had installed a subservient cabinet to rule in his place.

however, before the wrath of the offended professors.

Rivera, famed artist whose laurels at the Department of Education are seen by almost every tourist here, is engaged now in some murels at Cuernavaca commissioned by Ambassador Morrow. Magana no longer is either janitor or professor as the circumstances under which he was forced from his last job prevented his resuming the first. Living in poverty, he is devoting his time to carving.

Ambassador Morrow was largely responsible for the organization of the Carnegie exhibit and many of his own possessions are displayed therein.

ROCHELLE—The Og'e County Legion and Auxiliary plan to hold their meeting in this city Thursday, August 21. The meeting will take the form of a basket picnic to be held at Memorial Park. Juvenile vaudeville stunts will be put on by the different visiting units, and quite likely they will be dancing in the park pavilion, which should make a very attractive program.

KID CHOCOLATE- BERG FIGHT ON THURS. IS CARD

Match Has Been "Natural" Ever Since It Was Signed Up

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
New York, Aug. 4—(UP)—Strange as it may seem, there is a boxing bout scheduled for this week which hasn't given rise to the usual stories of being "in the bag" and promises to be a real honest fight.

The bout in question is the Kid Chocolate-Jack (Kid) Berg contest at the Polo Grounds Thursday night. Interest has mounted to the point where the crowd seems certain to go beyond 50,000 and the gate is expected to exceed $225,000.

The match has been a "natural" almost from the very time it was made. Kid Chocolate, Cuban Negro, has 168 straight victories to his credit in amateur and professional ranks, barring a draw with Joe Scalafaro in 1928, and has never been defeated.

Berg, a little English Hebrew who came to this country two years ago without much of a reputation, has whipped most of the light-weights who would fight him. He has taken his place with Al Singer, lightweight champion, and Chocolate as one of the three most popular boxers in New York.

Berg a Windmill
Fighting much after the fashion of the late Harry Greb, Berg violates every known style of ring fighting. From bell to bell, he is a veritable windmill, all arms, elbows, fists—and action.

It is one of the mysteries of the ring how this red-checked, sleek-haired little Englishman can go at top speed for every minute of ten rounds, and not drop from exhaustion. A noted physician explains it by saying in effect that Berg carries an oxygen tank around in his chest with him.

Chocolate will concede Berg something like ten pounds and many believe the weight handicap will prove too much for him. Berg will scale 134 and Chocolate will come in at about 126.

Chocolate is the leading contender for the featherweight title, and Berg the leading challenger for the lightweight crown. Chocolate holds a decision over Singer. If Berg wins he will meet Singer in September, but the lightweight title-holder is not anxious for another bout with Chocolate.

Betting odds favor Berg at 6 to 5, but Chocolate has many backers who may bring the odds to even money.

Baseball Gossip

By HUGH S. FULLERTON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Brooklyn Robins and New York Giants have done each other several good turns this season by beating their rivals from Chicago and St. Louis at timely moments. But when they go against each other, friendly feeling is forgotten, particularly when the Giants are trying to reach Brooklyn's place at the top of the National League.

There was great rejoicing in Flatbush yesterday when the Robins came out ahead of their rivals from the other side of the East river by a 1 to 0 score.

But in spite of the report that the Robins would rather beat the Giants than win the pennant, they get a great deal of satisfaction from today's stand, for the victory put them three games ahead of Chicago. The Cub machine went to pieces after sailing ahead of the Pittsburgh Pirates for seven innings, and Pittsburgh scored eight runs in the eighth for a 12 to 8 triumph. Al

Boal led the victors by contributing his fourth home run of the three-game series to the rally while Hack Wilson hit his 35th of the year for the Cubs.

The St. Louis Cardinals improved their fourth-place position by winning two games from Cincinnati, slugging out a total of 27 hits to win by scores of 11 to 6 and 6 to 3. Puccinelli provided the first game feature by clouting a homer as a pinch hitter, the second time he has performed the feat. The Philies, after losing twelve twin bills this season won their first double header, beating the Boston Braves, 11 to 5, and 4 to 1.

The theme of rivalry between neighbors was carried out in the American League by the New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletics, with the Yanks winning by a 9 to 3 count.

The first-division results in the junior circuit were all in favor of the Yankees, for the Boston Red Sox finally broke their losing streak in their second game against Washington with a 7 to 1 triumph after the Senators had won the first, 11 to 2. Waite Hoyt pitched a good game, stopping all of the Chicago White Sox but Carl Reynolds to give Detroit a 4 to 3 victory. Reynolds drove in all the Chicago runs with a pair of homers. The St. Louis Browns continued their recent streak of slugging to place themselves only a game and one half behind Chicago. They pounded four Cleveland pitchers for 18 hits to defeat the Indians, 14 to 6, although three Cleveland players walloped homers. Eddie Morgan added to his Cleveland homer record, making it 22.

"Fourteen Count" Is K-Oed By Policemen

Chicago, Aug. 4—(AP)—Dave Barry, who gained the sobriquet of "Fourteen Count" after the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Soldiers Field in 1927 was knocked out early today by a Niles Center policeman.

Barry, according to Officer Robert Bowman, parked his automobile along a suburban road with no lights aglow. The policeman investigated but Barry refused to answer questions at the Niles Center station. Barry refused to leave his car, and when Bowman attempted to drag him out "Fourteen Count" jumped to the ground, assuming a fighting pose.

Barry led and Bowman came back with a right cross to the chin, which knocked Barry cold.

A physician revived the referee. He identified himself. A woman with him, he said, was his sister-in-law Mrs. Gertrude Barry, of New York. Barry was held overnight, pending filing of charges today.

Night Football In Chicago In October

Chicago, Aug. 4—(AP)—Chicago will see its first night football game Friday, October 3, when Dr. Clarence W. Spears brings his first Oregon team to Soldier Field to meet Drake University.

The experience will be nothing new for Drake, for the Bulldogs inaugurated night football at Des Moines, Iowa, in 1928. Soldier Field will be equipped with a lighting arrangement providing 300,000 watts.

Chicago, Aug. 4—(AP)—All decked out in $300,000 worth of improvements, Hawthorne opened its gates today for 18-days of horse racing, with a $5,000 handicap as the main event.

Closer to the loop than Arlington Park, and enlarged to double its former accommodations, the west side plant is expected to have its best season. More than 1,500 horses are stabled, including a big share of the stars which performed at Arlington.

Today's feature, a renewal of the inaugural handicap, had an overnight list of fourteen, with the Reichert brothers' entry of Brown Wisdom and My Dandy, the favorite at 2 to 1. The prize race of the meeting, the Hawthorne Handicap, worth $25,000 in added money, will be run next Saturday, with the Chicago Business Men's Racing Association Handicap, a $10,000 event, set for one week later, along with the Windy City Claiming Stakes, $5,000 added. The final day, August 23, will offer the $5,000 Fort Dearborn Handicap, the $10,000 Chicago Juvenile Handicap, and the Illinois Owners' Handicap, with $5,000 in added money.

Stadium President May Become Manager

Chicago, Aug. 2—(AP)—Sidney Strotz, president of the Chicago Stadium Corporation, probably will add the duties of General Manager of the huge sports plant to his activities.

Strotz, who succeeded Sheldon M. Clark as President of the organization, when the latter resigned, last night said he expected to also become General Manager to replace John Bowman, who resigned yesterday.

There was talk that Jack Dempsey might be offered the job, but Strotz said no plans had been made to bring in anyone to succeed Bowman. Bowman gave up the Stadium position to return to his former business of managing conventions and exhibits. He said he believed there was not enough work to require two men at the Stadium and that Strotz was capable of handling everything.

DIXON, ILLINOIS

Hudson Is Distinctive 6-Room Residence of English Style; Will Suit 41-Foot Lot

While an architect will tell you that the plans of the house are more important and that the exterior lines should be subordinate to the interior, the prospective home builder can select the Hudson, illustrated on adjacent columns, with the assurance that he is getting well planned interior and an exterior that is exceptional in attractiveness and distinction.

The Hudson contains six rooms, bath and breakfast nook. The plans are well arranged with every comfort and convenience provided. This house is almost square, the dimensions being twenty-seven by twenty-eight feet. It will suit the ordinary forty foot lot to advantage and a larger lot will show the architectural lines of the dwelling pleasingly.

Distinctive Exterior

Seen from the street, the residence is striking in its rugged lines, the informal atmosphere of the English type house being exemplified in the half timbers and stucco of the overhanging second floor, the brick veneer lower floor elevation, the staggered wooden shingles of the roof and upper side walls. A small grass terrace raises the house above the surrounding lawn and aids in removing the sense of flatness that would otherwise result.

The flat concrete slab which serves for a stoop is flanked on either side by an ornamental iron railing. The steps leading to the concrete sidewalk are also guarded at either end by brick courses which contrast with the white of the concrete and the green of the lawn.

Across the front of the dwelling is a bay of five windows of the double-hung type with diamond panes above. The mullions between each window are constructed of wood, painted white to contrast with the brick of the side walls.

Floor Space Well Arranged.

The floor plans of the Hudson have been thoughtfully laid out to take advantage of the square lines of the house. Space is not wasted but each square foot utilized to the greatest advantage. On the first floor are found the living room, the dining room, a well equipped kitchen with a breakfast nook. A lavatory, reception hall and clothes closet are also on this floor.

Within the broad front door is the reception hall with a staircase leading up to the floor above. A clothes closet with a mirror in the door is conveniently placed to accommodate the overcoats, rubbers and other outer garments of the members of the family.

French doors separate the hall from the living room, a spacious room nineteen feet long and thirteen wide.

The brick fireplace at the end of the room presents a focal point about which the interior decorating of the room may center. The broad bay of windows let in a flood of natural daylighting.

Service Rooms Well Arranged
Immediately to the rear of the living room is the dining room, ten feet by thirteen feet in size, with a door leading to a convenient porch upon which may be served meals during the hot summer months.

The kitchen, separated from the dining room by a swinging door, is arranged to afford every convenience to the lady of the house. It contains a number of built-in cupboards which take the place of the old fashioned pantry. The white enameled sink is located beneath the rear window. In the alcove in one corner is the breakfast nook with an over head light.

From the kitchen a door leads to a service porch off of which is located a well-equipped lavatory. A medicine cabinet with a side wall light is found here. Off the service hall also is the stairs leading to the basement and the door outside.

Furnace Heat

Like many small homes, the Hudson is heated by a hot air furnace which due to its low cost is usually more economical for this size house.

A hot water heater is conveniently located to the furnace. The fuel bin is located in one corner of the basement at the side near the garage drive so that coal trucks can unload without trouble.

The basement has been entirely excavated and a concrete floor laid over the whole. At one side are a pair of laundry tubs where washing may be done at home if the family desire.

At the front of the basement is found the fruit cellar, five shelves in the recess formed by the footings for the bay window holding the fruits that may be stored there.

Three Chambers Above
On the second floor are located three sleeping rooms a linen closet and a bath. Each chamber is equipped with a closet lighted by an electric bulb. The closets of the chambers have shelves and a rod upon which hangers may be placed.

The linen storage is five feet by eight feet in size and contains a shallow case with shelves for placing towels and linens. In this room may be stored the sewing machine and other household equipment.

Off the back chamber is the deck of the rear porch. This deck becomes a handy place for the housewife to air mattresses, bed coverings, clothes and the like.

The bath room is of generous dimensions, being twelve feet long by five feet wide. It contains the usual built-in bath tub and shower, as well as the pedestal bowl which are evidence of modern construction. In one corner of the closet is a small cupboard for towels.

BUILDING DESIGN MUST BE CHOSEN WITH CARE TO EXPRESS GOOD TASTE AND INDIVIDUALITY OF OWNER

The importance of the exterior lines of the house cannot be gainsaid. To the stranger or casual passer-by the appearance of the house is the only index of the type of person who lives within. If the house is old and out of date, with obsolete lines and trimmings, he is forced to the conclusion that the owner is not prosperous or is not critical, rather that he is content and self-satisfied with the commonplace or ordinary things of life.

On the other hand, the family that lives in a home that is smartly up-to-date is unconsciously placed in the class of those that are alive, progressive and self-respecting. The home is largely an index of the character of its owner or occupant.

Judge by Appearance

This desire of persons to classify the occupants of homes by the appearance and design of the houses they live in may be false and arbitrary. It may lead in many cases to conclusions that are detrimental to the interests of the owner. Yet human nature cannot be changed and the home builder should keep ever present the tendencies of the outsider to judge by the architectural design and environment of the dwelling.

When the home builder constructs his new home it should be with the thought that the home is the expression of the family. It serves to classify them with respect to taste and good breeding. In every way it should express the individuality of the occupants.

The exterior lines of the house therefore are an important consideration to the home builder. They should be carefully studied not only in relation to the floor plans but also with regard to the architectural feeling they will convey.

Be Conservative

The wise homebuilder will be conservative in choosing the external design. The radically unconventional, the bizarre and extreme should be discarded immediately. Aside from the standpoint of self expression, the home should be so constructed in layout and design that should the occasion ever arise when the home would be placed on the market, its appearance will not be a bar to a ready sale. On the other hand, it should be attractive and pleasing and the type of home that will appeal to the home seeker.

This consideration does not mean that the outlines of the house shall be strictly conventional and cast in the mould. The home must express and have an individuality of its own. But this expression must not be freakish or repulsive. The lines of the house should have a charming individuality.

Seek Long-Lived Style

Keep in mind also that the house will be lived in for a good many years. It will either grow more pleasing with the passing years or as time goes on will become more distasteful. Styles change and the same premise must hold true with the design of houses. The style tendencies are creeping into the construction of houses more or less. The family who are building must keep these facts in mind and build with the thought that their exterior will be such that ten or fifteen years from now the lines of the house will still be fresh and interesting.

When selecting the general style of house, the suitability of it with respect to the environment should be kept to the front. The house on the wooded lot requires different treatment than that on the hill top. The house on the narrow lot must overcome the crowding of its neighbors by architectural effects. Some houses instinctively call for large lots and carefully trimmed lawns while others look better snuggled under the protecting arms of a great tree.

Through the passing years certain architectural types have been developed which contain within themselves the principles of design that are lasting. These houses are radically different in appearance yet embodied within them are good taste, clean lines, beauty and common sense.

Common Sense in Design

The home owner who studies the rudiments of architecture will discover that common sense plays an important part in design. Common sense in the handling of materials is responsible for many accepted standards that have come down through the ages. The sharply pitched roof of the English house, for instance, is based on common sense; the heavy damp snows of England lose their tendency to cling to the roof when the pitch is great.

The heavy massive walls of the Spanish type were used to guard the occupants of the house from the searching rays of the sun. The family, sheltered behind the thick walls of the spanish house, were cool. Common sense indicated that this massive type of architecture be used.

Again, in Japan, the land of earthquakes, the most suitable material for building was bamboo which could be shaken down by the frequent and violent trembling of the earth. It was logical also to use a material that was close to hand.

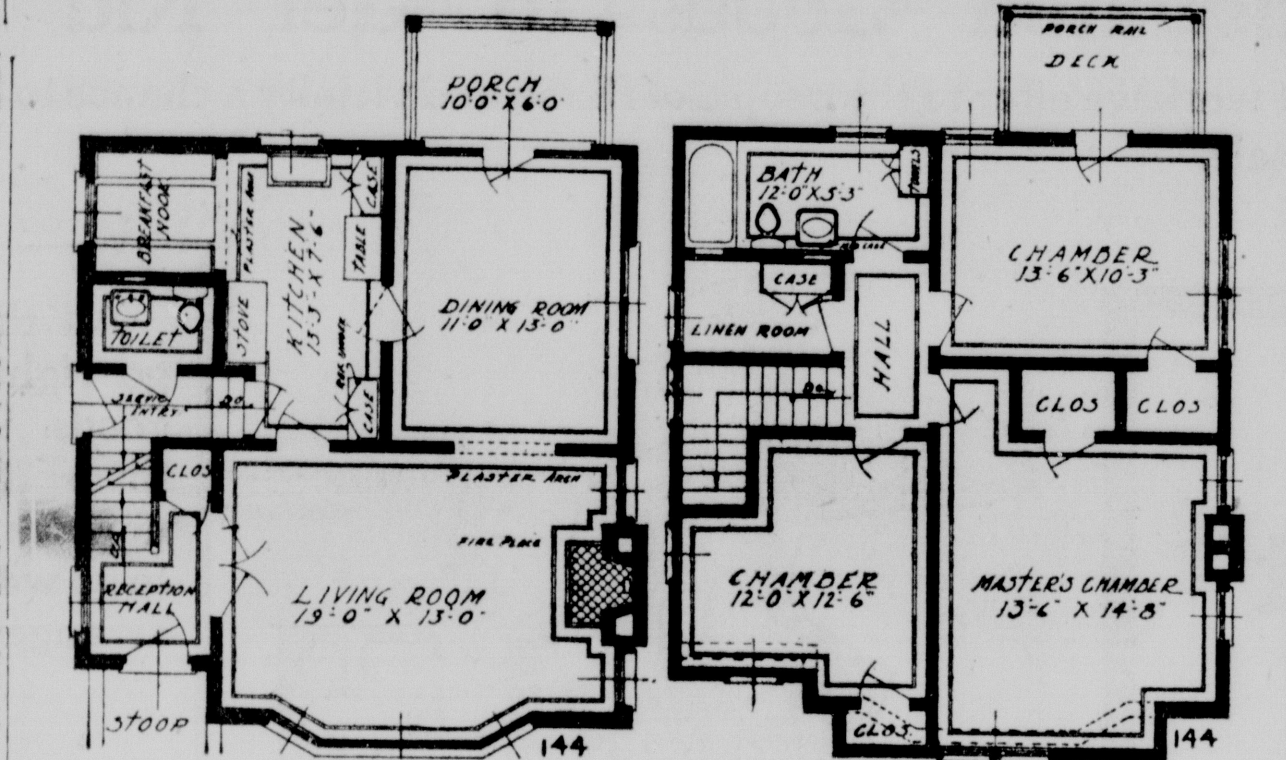

Good Taste Essential

When selecting the exterior lines of your new home keep in mind the suitability of the design to the surroundings and climate. Do not choose a design entirely upon its appearance, but rather upon the combination of effects that will be produced.

See that the exterior is in good taste, that it is suitable to the environment, that it reflects the individuality of its owners, their social position and wealth.

No doubt also the family have in mind certain designs such as the Colonial, the English, the Dutch Colonial or the Spanish. It may be that the bungalow is preferred. Whatever the family's leaning and preference, choose thoughtfully and with care. Each of these designs have their place and each can be adapted to the family requirements.

DIXON BOY WILL DRUM IN CHICAGO MUSIC FESTIVAL

Jimmie Rice Is Entered In Drum Solo Contests At Big Meeting

The Chicago Tribune of Sunday contained the following concerning the Chicago Music Festival to be held in that city under the auspices of the Tribune. The Dixon Telegraph, and many other papers in the Midwest.

The Kenosha News will hold its first entertainment of the Chicago-Midwest Music Festival Monday night in the Elks' auditorium. Three Chicago musicians, Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, Charles La Gorge, and Carl Craven, will go to Kenosha and judge the contestants. The second of the series of contests will be held on the night of Aug. 12 in the Washington park bowl when the larger units, such as choruses, bands, and instrumentalists will play.

The better the attendance is at the Creston News-Advertiser festival, which will be held on the evening of August 12, the better will be the condition of the dam at the McKinley park in that southwestern Iowa city. Frank Thayer, president of that publishing company is donating "every penny above expenses to the city park for improvements. A tenor will come from Creston to enter the contest in Chicago.

Waukegan, Ill., where The Daily News, the paper that has for its slogan, "It Leads," will send more than 100 contestants to Chicago for the finals. Three days will be taken to run off the local contest in the Waukegan High school auditorium. They are Friday, August 1; Tuesday, August 5, and Friday, August 8. Besides a band, chorus and quartets, soloists, both vocal and instrumental, will represent that enterprising city.

Michael F. Maloney, music editor of The Gary Post-Tribune, writes that Gary will take the lead in chorus representation with two to be sent to Soldiers' field. The Gary festival will be held Aug. 17. Tom H. Keene, progressive editor of The Elkhart Daily Truth, which will send the Corn Saxophone sextet to the finals is still as enthusiastic as he was several weeks ago when he entered the name of this organization. "We'll attempt to do our part," Mr. Keene writes, which means that Elkhart will be well represented.

The Kankakee Legion Drum corps, on the eve of coming to Chicago, won a drum corps contest at Homewood, Ill., several days ago. Nine corps completed, and the Kankakee outfit, writes Herman F. Schmidt, publisher of The Kankakee Daily News, which is sponsoring the music festival in that city, carried off all the honors. Harold Bachman, nationally known bandmaster, was one of the judges and highly complimented the unit on its playing. This drum corps, every one says, is worth going miles to see and hear. It will be in the gigantic parade of bands and drum corps at the entertainment at Soldiers' field Saturday night, Aug. 23.

The Danville Commercial-News announces a new Rudy Cooper of the Danville High school faculty, as the conductor.

Six bands have entered the Peoria-Transcript local contest. They are the Eureka, Washington, East Peoria, Manlius, Macomb, and Augusta bands. Probably the Kewanee and Canton bands will be in the competition. The local contest will be held in the beautiful Glen Oak park the night of Aug. 10. Petersburg, Ind., which gets national publicity each year from the many weird snake dance stories that it divulges to the gossipy public, may enter the city band in the Evansville Courier and Journal contest, so writes Miss Helene Weil, talent young newspaper woman and and critic of that paper. She is taking charge of the contest during a 2 weeks' absence of Karl K. Knecht, Hoosier cartoonist and secretary of the Circus Fans' association which met last week in Des Moines, Ia.

Josef Zahradka of Pana, Ill., through the assistance of the Pana Palladium, will bring his band to Chicago for the finals. This band was the first prize winner in the Midwest contest held last year at Terre Haute, Ind.

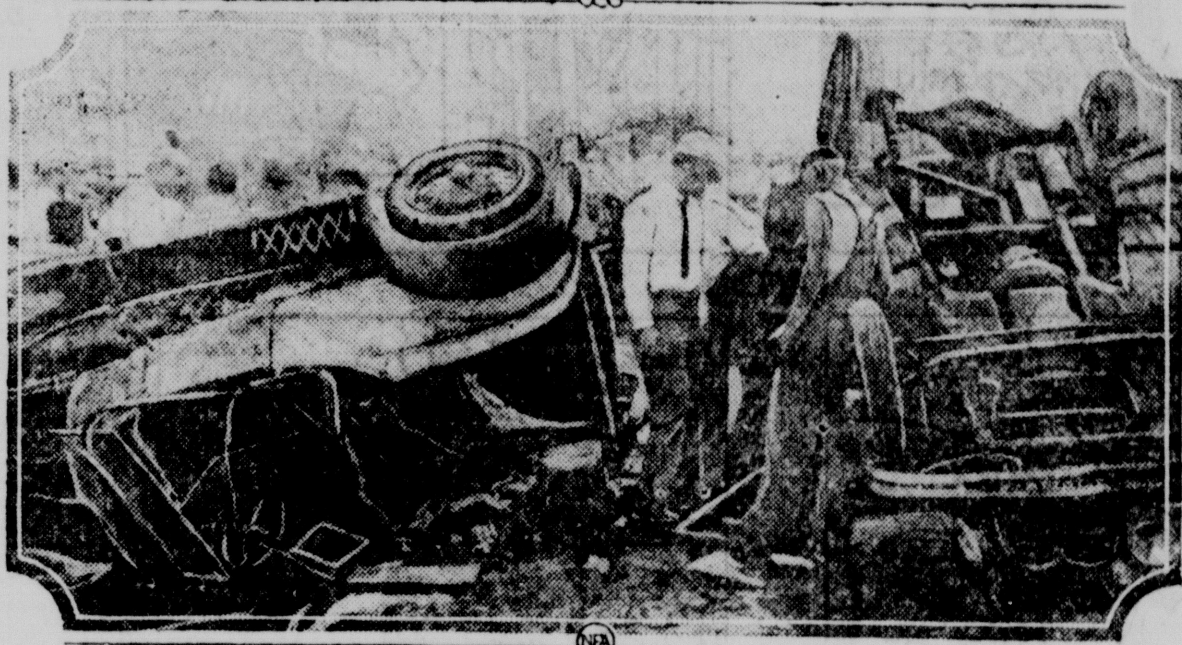

Although definite arrangements have not been made, a most interesting feature may enliven the entertainment in Soldiers' field by the presence of what is believed to be the oldest and the youngest snare drummers in America. The youth is Jimmie Rice, 7 year old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Rice, of Dixon, Ill., and the older musician is Capt. W. H. Baker, 83 years old, of near Freeport, Ill., who learned how to handle the sticks when he drummed up several companies for the Union army for the civil war. Capt. Baker says: "I'm not afraid to try out my skill as a snare drummer with any person that wants to compete for the honors of the best drummer in the state of Illinois." As there is no snare drummers contest, both Capt. Baker and Jimmie will have to take part in the entertainment as exhibitionists, and it is hoped that they may march side by side in the grand parade opening the concert at Soldiers' field. Jimmie has won acclaim every place

There's a Lesson in This Picture

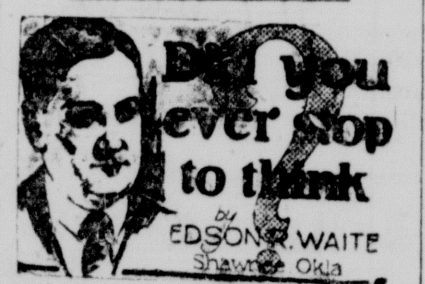

A slight lapse of carefulness in driving and a tragedy like this may result. It happened near Lawrence, Kas., recently, and involved two cars and a large passenger bus. Three people lost their lives, one is near the point of death and several were severely injured. Gasoline tanks of the cars caught fire after the crash, adding to the gruesomeness of the scene.

Here's One Way to Beat the Sun's Burning Rays

You can't stop the sun from shining but you can do the next best thing by erecting a street awning to protect shoppers from Old Sol's scorching rays. A business man's association in a certain Philadelphia community hit on this novel idea pictured above to shade their street and shoppers have been flocking their way ever since.

he has performed. The South Bend News-Tribune will hold its local festival on the nights of Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 5 and 6, in the Central High school auditorium. Among the towns and cities represented by the 110 contestants are Kimmel, Mishawaka, Goshen, Plymouth, Walker, Nappanee, Elkhart, Osceola, and from Michigan, Cassopolis, Benton Harbor, Berrien Springs, Buchanan, Niles, and Gallen.

The West Indian of Saint George, Grenada, B. W. I., in welcoming His Excellency, the acting Governor, H. R. R. Blood, who has the duty of temporarily taking hold of the government of the Windward Islands, says in part:

"Grenada is, in some respects, a curious little colony. Grenadians are good natured, hospitable, and friendly at heart. Grenadians, no matter what others may say, are easily led if quietly and wisely, but they cannot easily be pulled even by wild horses or be driven against their will by any engine within the reach of governmental authority.

"There have been battles on principle here not long ago—fierce, unrelenting—but these are all over. The Reveille has been sounded and all of us look forward to the necessary peace of new days and new ways. We, of the West Indian, have no inheritances from the past to bring into account in this new beginning in the colony's administrative experience. Ours is a clean slate for the time being.

"Our hope is that Mr. Blood will find himself a great success in Grenada, surrounded by the good will of the people as a result of consecrated care of their best interests and large-hearted sympathy with their legitimate aspirations.

"It was General Gordon who once said that the best way to govern a different people is to 'get into their skins.' The difficulty with most West Indian Governors is that they come to the West Indies for the first time and have to learn a great deal about 'natives' before settling down to any real work. West Indians are a conscious people and live their thought-life on a very high plane. 'Native' satisfaction elsewhere are not in the programme of West Indian conceptions. Grenada, the West Indies, need real Empire-building. Governors at this critical period who are fully able to realize that unless the solid foundations of citizenship are well and truly laid in these ancient colonies, cemented with the free, wholesome affection of an intelligent people, then the spectacular, yet superficial, superstructure that autocracy may raise can be no better than the tower of Babel or the wall of Jericho in the long run."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Love" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 3.

The Golden Text was, "No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us" (1 John 4:12).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Beloved, let us love one another; for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love" (1 John 4:7, 8).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The vital part, the heart and soul of Christian Science, is Love" (p. 113).

SAYS AMERICANS ARE INTERESTED IN SOVIET NEWS

Institute Of Politics Hears Of Conditions In Soviet Russia

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 2.—(U.P.)—Americans are more interested in news from Soviet Russia than any other people in the world, Karl A. Bickel, President of the United Press Association, told the Institute of Politics today.

He declared in his address, "News From Russia," that American press Associations and many newspapers maintained staff correspondents in Russia, not only to supply American newspapers with Russian news, but to distribute it all over the world.

Russian censorship, Bickel said, is "frank and fair as censorship goes." "Statements of fact if supported by evidence in the possession of the correspondent are rarely questioned," he declared. "The last important story held up by the Russian censor was the exile of Trotsky which was delayed about three days. In the meantime however the news had reached Berlin through friends of Trotsky and was known throughout the world."

Peter A. Bogdanov, chairman of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, Soviet commercial agency in the United States, said that American manufacturers are in a specially favored position in the Soviet market, because it is to the United States that the Soviet Union turns for machinery and technical skill.

Need Better Credit
In order to continue and build up the mutually profitable trade relations with the United States, however, it is necessary that American business firms and banks establish better credit conditions, Bogdanov said, and that there be an increase in Soviet exports to the United States, as well as a proper atmosphere for the work here.

American banks, said Bogdanov, have been backward in long-term financing of purchases for the Soviet Union, which is in contrast to the favorable terms now being offered by European countries.

"One of the reasons for the difficulty in the contraction of credits and financial facilities," he added, "has been undoubtedly a certain lack of confidence created by the many baseless rumors regarding economic conditions in the Soviet Union and the recent unwarranted attacks on the Amtorg."

"We have never experienced a situation corresponding to the present one in this country. The fundamental element in the foreign trade policy of the Soviet Union is the peaceful development of economic relations with other countries of the world on the basis of mutual interests."

Other taxes collected by the State may be distributed in whole or in part among the counties and other municipal corporations in such manner as the General Assembly shall direct by general law.

The Hollywood Story

COPYRIGHT 1930 by NEA SERVICE Inc. by ERNEST LYNN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAN RORIMER, former New York newspaper man, who is now writing sensation for Continental "Picture" in Hollywood, gets a letter from an old friend in New York, ZIGGY YOUNG, telling him to look up a girl named ANNE WINTER, who has come from Tulsa, Okla., to "crash the picture."

Dan complies reluctantly, as he is distrustful of Ziggy, but Anne proves to be charming. She has had stage experience—in stock companies, which Dan tells her is the best foundation for an extra to have. Anne gathers that he is a little disaffected with things at Continental.

The following Monday rehearsal begins on his picture, an adaptation of a story he had written. That evening he learns that Anne is to work the following morning, making the second time she has found extra employment. That same evening Dan goes to a Wagona dinner with PAUL COLLIER, who writes a daily movie column for a string of newspapers. Collier laments his inability to get hold of what he calls the "real Hollywood story," the story of the thousands of extras—how they manage to live.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI
ANNE WINTER was in high spirits when Rorimer called for her the next morning. She said when she had settled beside him in the roadster, that she had prospects of a week's steady employment; possibly more.

"It's to be quite a big picture. I gather, with a lot of people. I'm thrilled to death, even though I am so unimportant."

Dan, inspecting her critically in her flat movie makeup, remarked the chiseled perfection of her nose and chin in profile, and the shadowed beauty of wide dark eyes against the tawny pallor of grease paint and powder. She was wearing a white polo coat, long and loose fitting and sporty, and a white beret.

"What's the picture?" he asked.

"I don't know that they have a name for it. Sylvia Patterson is starring in it—she's lovely, isn't she?"

"Oh, I'm not so crazy about blonds," he drawled. "I prefer them with dark brown eyes and black hair, and I like them to come from Oklahoma—"

"You're headed straight for that telephone pole," she reminded him quickly, and he turned his eyes front.

"You look as if you're going out to play tennis instead of to work," he said.

Amne laughed. "Don't I, though? I'm supposed to be a guest at a fashionable house party. Today it's sports wear."

"You look like a million dollars," Dan told her, thinking that what clothes he had seen in her would indicate Anne Winter's wardrobe was, to say the least, adequate.

Almost as if he read his thoughts, she said, "I think the fact that I had the right clothes helped me. You see, when I registered I was asked about my wardrobe. It's fairly complete; I found that was necessary in stage work. And yesterday Central Casting telephoned me about this picture just when I was getting ready to call them and ask if they had anything isn't that grand?"

It certainly was, Rorimer agreed. "You'll knock 'em dead; see if you don't."

HE led her out at the Grand United gates. "Pick you up

ride, provided he would get her back before ten o'clock. They were riding westward, through Beverly Hills, and Dan had in mind the beach at Santa Monica.

Her day, she said, had been eventful and pleasant, though somewhat wearying. "I'm a little tired, Dan," she confessed.

Garry Sloan, it seemed, was the director of the picture she was working in.

Dan said, "Garry Sloan, eh? Grand United's using its big guns—Sylvia Patterson and Sloan."

"I told you it was to be quite a picture."

"Do you know how long you'll be working on it?"

"No. A long time, I hope."

Dan said, "Has Sloan still got his crush on Sylvia Patterson?"

"Are they supposed to be that way?"

"I thought," Dan said, "that everybody in Hollywood knew about that. Sloan's married, you know—has a couple of kids."

SHE made no reply to that. She merely said, "Everyone says he's a wonderful director."

"One of the best, I guess. He's certainly got a big enough reputation."

They rode in silence for a while, and the tires sang under them; and presently Dan turned the car to the right and down a declivity, and they beheld the ocean shimmering beneath the moon.

The car stopped beside a stretch of beach, where the sound of breaking waves fell pleasantly on their ears, and they sat very still, wordless and thoughtful in the sea's enchanting spell.

Rorimer lit a cigaret. He said presently, "Old Man Pacific looks a little different at night, doesn't he?"

The car stopped beside a stretch of beach.

This evening?" he asked.

She said she wasn't sure. "I might have to work late; you can't tell. Perhaps you'd better not."

"But I'll want to know how the day went."

"Then call me up this evening."

"How about going places and doing things?"

"Not if I'm working tomorrow morning," Anne said, shaking her head and laughing. "Early to bed, you know—that's what keeps the lines out of little girls' faces."

"But at least we can go for a little ride," Dan argued.

"Well, we'll see about that later." His day dragged by on leaden feet. Collins was exacting and the cast was not speaking its lines to suit him, and Dan had a chance to observe what a tyrant a director could be. Though Collins he told himself, was a good-humored tyrant, his wide and easy-going grin took the sting out of the sharp reproof. It spread his little blond, sharply upturned mustache, and crinkled the corners of his eyes, and flashed whitely with healthy teeth.

He would say, holding up his hand: "Brand, you're speaking your lines like a ventriloquist's dummy. Don't give me a dead pan; put some animation in your face. Atwood, here, has taken your girl away from you and you're mad—see? You act as if he was doing you a big favor. Come on and get mad—think about that dough you lost on that horse at Caliente."

Then the grin, and then the repetition of the lines. Thus the day passed, and that evening Rorimer told Anne Winter he had formed a new respect for picture making.

"This Collins knows his stuff," Anne.

She had consented to go for a ride, provided he would get her back before ten o'clock. They were riding westward, through Beverly Hills, and Dan had in mind the beach at Santa Monica.

he?" He had shown her Santa Monica on their Sunday afternoon drive.

Anne nodded.

He said, "Sport clothes tomorrow? Give me all the details."

"Sport and evening both," she said, smiling. "Oh, I forgot to tell you, I met the sweetest girl today. She's an extra, too, and working in the same picture. I may go to live with her—that is, if things work out right."

Her name, Anne said, was Mona Morrison. "She's adorable, Dan; we became friends right away. She has the loveliest

Detroit Gunmen Kill Recall Leader As Election Ends

NEA

An artist's conception of the murder of Gerald W. Buckley, militant Detroit radio announcer and a leader in the movement to recall Mayor Charles Bowles, is shown above. This was taken in the lobby of the LaSalle hotel a few minutes after Buckley had been slain there by three gunmen who pumped a dozen bullets into his body. The artist has sketched the figures as the scene of the killing was described by witnesses. A closeup of Buckley appears at the left.
